Performing Arts

The context:

As per as the vision and mission of the college is concerned, the college is committed to carry out maximum curricular and extracurricular activities. Conduction of performing arts is one of such activities which provided a platform for student's participants to short case their potential in various performing art apart from their academic learning performing arts are form of arts which artists use their voices of bodies, often in relation to other objects, to convey artistic expression. It is different from visual arts, which is when artists use paint canvas or various materials to create physical or static art objects. Performing arts include several disciplines, each performed in front of a live audience therefore keeping this mind students were inspired to participate and perform arts such as dance, singing, drama, mimicry, music, comedy, etc.

Objectives of the Practice

- a) To provide a platform for students to showcase their potentials.
- b) To organize annual gathering..
- c) To make students to lock forward to performing arts as career options.
- d) To create cheerful ambience on the campus.
- e) To sensitize students towards social happenings through various arts.
- f) To recreate cultural awareness

The Practice

Keeping in mind the need of arrangement of annual gathering student for exposing several potentials among, the college organized a one day programme of performing arts on 20th Feb, 2018. However before the day a lot of effort was being done so as to make students participate and let them know that such programmes are the part and parcel in the overall development of a student

The department of cultural affairs has invited Mr. Kamble, Mr. Gaikwad and Mr. Akshay Jagdhane in the college for artistic practice and rhythmic arrangement of performances. The trainers got the students into practice almost for ten days very sincerely.

Student of three faculties participated in the programmes very enthusiastically. Noticeable fact was that number of girls student participation was higher than boys students despite of the rural background of participants in performing arts is 48 and among them so were girls students and is were boys students. Together they performed almost 42 programmes. The arts they performed were dances, music, theatre, singing, comedy, mimicry, poetry, reading, oratory debate, etc.

The department of cultural affairs had also appointed two examinations for the evaluation of performing arts of students on the same day, the college had invited a chief guest Yogeshji Ranmale, Zee Marathi sa-re-ga-ma fame for the inauguration of the programme. His singing made the ambience very cheerful.

Performances of all participated students were worth be warding and admiring however, the examinations had selected a few student whose performances were rather excellent these selected students got prizes such as : a) students of FYBCA got the prize for the realistic theoretical presentation entitled Najre Adache Goan; the second prize was given to a TYBA student Mr. Ameer Sayyad for his mimicry of Jugglar and the third prize was given to a TYBSC student Rantamala Khedkar for her singing. Two prizes were also distributed to two students. Mr. Krushna Madake, a student of SYBSC received a prize Ganesha and Miss. Kajal Vharkate also received a prize for her 'Lavani' Dance

Problems Encountered:

The college lacks recreation cum auditorium hall. Almost all students are from rural background. Therefore there was initiate hesitation in performing arts. Especially hesitation was conspicuous in girls students another problem was that due to continuous academic works like lectures, practical and tutorials students found it little difficult to spare time for practice and participation in gathering. The college lacks musician, trainers for cultural activities which was bit problematic in the initial days of audition. Most of the students coming from poor financial background found it difficult to purchase drapery and other essentials required for the performances of arts. The exam schedule begins almost in February, therefore it was to some extent problematic to gather students and take their time. Students do not like to think out of the box and they hesitate to look forward to performing arts as career options ahead in future due to the burden of other running activities. Therefore only one day had to be reserved for all performances.

Impact of the practice:

The impact of the practice was very positive. Initially, it came across that due to some obstacles, students may not participate or the number of participation would be very less. However as the audition moved forward the number of participation increased gradually.

There was variation in performing arts the variation was in the form of local, regional , national and western as well as which made the entire programme very colour full. There was a common audience that they missed the participation.

The principal of the college promised student that the annual gathering of the next academic year would be held for three days, this was the real impact. The chief guest also appreciated all performances.

Another impact was that through several performing arts. There was focus on different social issues like farmers suicide, dowry, female foeticide, etc which are needed to be addressed and highlighted.

Several sections of society from the neighbourhood took notice of all performances and agreed to the fact that such opportunities for students are the real platform for future careers.

Resources required:

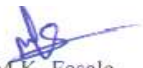

The college hired musician trainer to shape performances of students. The college also hired Pandals music system catering facility, photographer and a hall where in the programmes was arranged.

Bharud

The Context:

The sects like nath, mahanubhav and the varkari created a large body of literature and brought about the first wave of cultural enlightenment in Maharashtra. They created a sense of religious and literature identity. The first wave of enlightenment created an awareness that the period of 500 years that followed saints and poets composed in their works. Saint Eknath handled a poetic form like 'bharud' with which its inherent dramatic element reached out to the large masses. Popular musical forms such as bharud, gavaln and arti took to the common masses highest religious and social thoughts through the medium of poetry such literary writings of saints not only shaped religious matters a lot to bring about social reforms.

Keeping this motive in mind the college organized a programme which was typically meant for rational reforms among students on the eve of the foundation day of the college.

The college celebrates its foundation day every year was established in 1997 in the remote eastern village Bodhegaon of shevgaon tehsil. The motive behind establishing the college is to provide facilities of higher education, especially for girls, wards of cane cutters and economically backward students. This motive entitles the college as community-driven institute. Hence, organizing programmes like Bharud for social reforms becomes obligatory on 27th September 2017, the college organized a programme of social reforms through Bharud of TV artist and well known singer cum actor Mr. Hamid Sayyad from Bhatkudgaon.

Objectives of the practice:

- a) To remember the motive behind the establishment of the college.
- b) To bring about social reforms.
- c) To sensitize students to social reforms
- d) To rejuvenate folk culture
- e) To reinforce social commitment
- f) To appreciate contemporary proponent of folk culture

The Practice:

On the eve of the foundation day, several activities were organized. They were alumni meet, publication of 'Lalsurya periodical and particularly Bharud programme by the social reformer Mr. Hameed Alim sayyad.

Hameed Alim sayyad launched his programme of Bharud initially by commemorating the contribution of Late Abasaheb Kakade, Shahir Amar Shaikh, Annabhau Sathe, in the formation of the eastern part formation of the eastern parts of shevgaon tehsil particularly Bodhegaon village and the vicinity, He paid huge tribute to Comrade Abasaheb Kakade for his pioneering work in the field of education and society. He also praised Adv. Vidyadharji Kakade and Harshadatai Kakade for their effort in providing facilities of higher education.

Hameed sayyid, at outset referred to saint Eknath from paithan who composed the germ of bharud for social enlightenment. He mentioned that saint Eknath was a prominent Marathi Saint Chokha, and religious poet of the varkari sampradaya, in the development of Marathi literature Ekanth is seen as a bridge between his predecessors Dnyaneshwar and Namdev and the later Tukaram. Through his presentation, he further explained the concept of Bharud. He said bharud is one of the important folk arts of Maharashtra, which is still alive and going stronger in today's times after the tamasha bharud is next favourite form of folk arts in the rural areas.

Bharud art form is as educative as it is enjoyable and it throws light on several social issues so as with his associated which focused some social and religious lacuna. Issues such as dowry, discrimination, untouchability, spirituality, fundamentalism, misunderstandings, etc were highlighted through his melodious singing and dramatic presentation.

His bharud began with the praise of lord vithoba with the loud cry of.

“pundalik varade hari vitthal ..
Shri dnyandev tukaram ...”

He also sang the bhajan of Vithoba- Rukhmai. This bhajan continued for some time allowing the enthusiasm slowly build and finally when the rhythm reached a crescendo a loud cry of pundlik varadev... was given by the singers, accompanied by the audience.

Problems encountered:

As the present generation of students is engaged in the entertainment provided by Bollywood, they were initially reluctant to respond to the programme likewise other sorts of entertainment are easily accessible to students due to the facility of Wi-Fi and android mobile.

The next problem that the host faced was that of the unavailability of auditorium hall because of which the programme had to be carried out at open place behind the college.

The next problem was that of inadequate time because other activities of the foundation day such as the publication of the “Lalsurya” periodical and alumni meet were also conducted at the same time. Students of BSc were also busy in some practical sessions.

Impact of the practice:

As the programme of Bharud was necessarily meant for social enlightenment, the reason is today students are tomorrow's civilians and they should be enlightened for future information in society.

The Bharud's Hameed Sayyad presented enabled student to nurture rational mind-set for existence of pluralistic society. The programme also shaped career directions of many students. The major impact was felt among many students and made them expose their potentials in literature.

The programme made students look forward to career and life and society sensitively. Another impact was the resonation of look culture which has started ruining due to the invasion and excessive availability of modern entertainment. The programme also highlighted certain social misdeeds which are needed to be rectified promptly so as to avoid some forthcoming social disputes in future

Resources Required:

Mr. Hameed Sayyad has already brought his associates in student with him, therefore was little scope to use local things. Yet, the college managed other essential things such as stage, sound system, catering facility, hospitality, etc.

Honourable Justice Mr. Bhagwat Zirpe, an alumni meeting on 27 Sept. 2017

Respected Mr. Hameed Sayyad a folk singer & social reformer presenting his art
